A Talk for Business Men

Holiday advertising!
The season is approaching; what are you doing?

The magazines of the current month, loaded to the guards with attractive advertisements for mail order and other houses are now going into every home, and special catalogues describing Christmas gifts and quoting prices are being sent out by eastern houses. Metropolitan dailies, too, are running extra pages to accommodate the holiday publicity announcements of the department and other stores.

These business men recognize the value of printer's ink. They recognize, too, the truth of the old adage that "the early bird catches the worm."

"Times are a little unsatisfactory," you say. "These bank failures have raised the dickens, and the people are hedging."

Partially correct. But the admission is a strong argument in favor of liberal, persistent and intelligent advertising.

We'll venture this assertion:

In the face of recent events Globe is in better financial condition than any city of similar size in the southwest; there are fewer unemployed men to the thousand population than in any city in the country, and the employed are receiving a higher average scale of wages. There's more scare than there is in scarcity. There is greater reason for a redoubling of energy; for extra exertion; for seductive inducement.

Christmas is going to be celebrated in Globe by extensive gift-making just as it was last year. And these gifts are going to be purchased in Globe if liberal inducement is held out.

Christmas, if properly taken advantage of by the business public is the fortunate medium through which old-time mercantile conditions are to be restored.

It is going to pull from hiding places—even of the most timid—thousands of good dollars, which could be placed in circulation through no other influence.

Christmas always has and always will separate a man from his money—and a woman, too, for that matter.

There'll be no empty stockings around your home on Christmas morning; nor will there be at the home of your neighbor.

The tin can banks, the old socks and the chests will be emptied of their treasure, and this money will go into legitimate trade channels.

It will go into the tills of your store if you invite it.

Economy may govern the Christmas expending hand and where economy or saving is contemplated, advance where the shrewd advertiser profits. He gives publicity to his wares and he quotes a tempting price. You know the sequel—He gets the crowds.

MAGNIFICENT DISPLAY OF PARISIAN GOWNS

The home coming of Mrs. Dolph Baatz was fraught with more than ordinary interest, especially in the women's circles. While in San Francisco Mrs. Baatz met the American representative of a large Paris house who was making a display of some of the finest wraps and gowns perhaps ever imported to this country. Mrs. Baatz selected a number of opera cloaks and a number of bridal gowns, which are the finest and most elaborate ever brought to Globe. These garments were placed on display yesterday and attracted many ladies to the North Broad street emporium. Tomorrow's Silver Belt will tell an interesting story of "The People's Cash Store," and something of the purchases made by Mrs. Baatz from foreign salesmen while in San Francisco.

WOMAN SUFFRAGISTS COMPEL GLADSTONE TO END ADDRESS

LONDON, November 22.—Woman suffragists today virtually compelled Herbert Gladstone, secretary of state and home affairs, to abandon an attempt to address a meeting here. Interruptions of the suffragists became so persistent that Gladstone declared he could no longer struggle against such tactics and brought his speech to a sudden close. One of the suffragists thereupon tried to take possession of the meeting. Gladstone and his wife retreated and the meeting closed.

FORMER CASHIER OF WALSH BANK GIVES DAMAGING EVIDENCE

CHICAGO, November 22.—Frederick W. McLean, former assistant cashier of the Chicago National bank, testified in the trial of John R. Walsh today of the making by him of a number of memorandum notes, each for the sum of $92,000. He declared that he made the notes, signed various names to them and discounted them at the direction of Walsh. When the notes fell due, he said he made out new ones, signing the same names as before. The old notes, he said, were paid by means of discounting and the tickets then destroyed. The same collateral, $100,000 in bonds of the Illinois Southern, were accepted by the bank for the old and new notes.

A constant wrangling between the attorneys, caused for the most part by numerous objections by the defense to the testimony of McLean, delayed the progress. So vigorous were the objections to the line of testimony that the cashier had not finished his story when adjournment came. He will resume the stand Monday.

ANOTHER CLAIMANT FOR SHARE OF THE PORTLAND ESTATE

CHRIST CHURCH, New Zealand, November 22.—A claimant to a share of the Portland estate has appeared here in the person of Samuel Calkins of Whangarei, who claims to be an elder brother of Walter Scott Calkins of Millville, N. J. Walter Scott Calkins claims a share of the estate of the duke of Portland by tracing his lineage from the oldest son of the duke of Portland, who came to the United States more than a century ago.

CRAZED COACHMAN ALMOST KILLS ADLAI STEVENSON'S BROTHER

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., November 22.—Edward N. Jennings, for twenty-two years in the employ of John C. Stevenson, a capitalist of this city and brother of former Vice President Stevenson, this morning attempted to shoot his employer. The latter secured the revolver aimed at his head and fought his assailant until the man was overpowered and locked up. It is believed that Jennings became suddenly demoralized.

DENVER MINT TO RESUME COINAGE OF SILVER DECEMBER 1

DENVER, Colo., November 22.—The Denver mint, which has coined about $150,000,000 in gold during the past two months, will resume coining silver December 1, working to full capacity. Silver coins to the value of about $50,000 daily will be produced and immediately put into circulation.

The Ambitions of Vice Presidents

The vice presidents elected to the presidency have comprised John Adams, vice president in 1789, and elected president in 1796; Thomas Jefferson, chosen to the vice presidency in 1796 and elected to the presidency in 1800; Martin Van Buren, becoming vice president in 1833 and chosen to the presidency in 1836; and Theodore Roosevelt, elected vice president in 1900 and elected president in 1904.

Among vice presidents not elected to the presidency, very many could be named. But Aaron Burr, George Clinton, Elbridge Gerry, Daniel D. Tompkins, John C. Calhoun, George M. Dallas, Hannibal Hamlin, Schuyler Colfax, William A. Wheeler, Levi P. Morton and Adlai E. Stevenson may be named as vice presidents who served four years, and were not nominated for the presidency after the expiration of their four-year terms. Mr. Fairbanks' chance by the first office, cannot be regarded as large or favorable.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Employing Speechless Waiters

There's a dumb waiter employed in a Market street restaurant who is smarter than any other waiter in the place. His ability to handle orders quickly, correctly and noiselessly has caused the proprietor to think that it might be a good idea to employ more speechless waiters and thus do away with the loud howling of orders around the place. Despite his inability to hear or talk, the waiter in question seldom makes a mistake. Knowing each day's bill of fare "by heart," he can often tell by the movements of a customer's lips just what he wants. When he fails to get the order by the lips' movement, the waiter places the bill of fare before the customer and the latter points out what his appetite craves. The order is then written quickly by the waiter and he carries it to the kitchen. He also gives especial attention to details. If a cranky customer calls him down the dumb waiter doesn't hear him.—Philadelphia Record.

The Edmondson House

E. L. Edmondson has leased the Webster house and is prepared to accommodate table boarders and roomers in a highly satisfactory manner. The house has been thoroughly renovated and is clean and neat from basement to attic. Mr. Edmondson is an experienced landlord and has a splendid reputation in Globe. Table service as good as any in the city and rooms are neat, clean and comfortable.

Governor Snubs Governor

Governor-elect Haskell of the new state of Oklahoma reverses distinguished precedents by refusing to ride next Saturday with the retiring territorial governor, Frank Frantz. It has happened that men about to go out of high office have declined to appear with their successors.

John Adams fled precipitately from Washington at the midnight preceding the inauguration of Jefferson. Moreover, he spent his last few hours in preparing a batch of appointments designed to embarrass the incoming president. His flight was the bitter act of a poor loser.

Following his father's unbecoming example, John Quincy Adams refused to attend, in 1829, the inauguration of Andrew Jackson. His absence cast no blight on the occasion of great public joy.

Like the two Adamses, Martin Van Buren sulked in defeat. So General William Henry Harrison, riding to the capital on horseback in 1841, was untended by the disappointed New York man whom he succeeded.

Frantz of Oklahoma is a former rough rider who tried to override the constitution that finally prevailed in the new commonwealth. His snubbing will be one of the first incidents of triumphant democratic statehood.—New York World.

Europe Behind Us in Anaesthetics

Dr. John A. McKenna of Philadelphia, who arrived yesterday on the Oceanic, went abroad to study the subject of anaesthetics, but decided after investigation that they know less in Europe about the subject than Americans.

"In England," said Dr. McKenna, "they stick to chloroform rather than ether, apparently through prejudice, because a Scotchman, Dr. Simpson, was the discoverer of chloroform. "I had a long talk with Dr. Waldo, a London coroner, who told me that in seven years he had been called to investigate fifty-nine deaths due to the use of anaesthetics in one form or another. Of this number, chloroform had been used in fifty-two cases, in four ether, and in three a mixture of the two ethyl-chloride.

"Chloroform is administered here by the so-called open method, but on the other side it is administered by means of a complex apparatus not under control.

"So far as a can judge, and my opinion is an honest one, we are well ahead in anaesthetics and the manner of administering them."—New York World.

And now is the winter of our financial discontent made glorious by the tide of millions, and now instead of taking a seat on the shady side of adversity, we caper nimbly to the pleading notes of restoring harmony among those who would take advantage of an opportunity which presents its golden hues to the man of action and enterprise. And here in Globe you are in the center of the field, 'neath smiling skies and great possibilities which await someone, who knows? But that you might be that someone, as real estate is and has been the best and safest investment known, why not own your own home, and in a country that has no peer. The resources are here, the climate is here, and the opportunities are here. AND A FLOOD OF GOLD LIES WAITING IN THE CONFINES OF OUR HILLS. And it takes work and brains to make money; talking of hard times helps no one. The enterprise of our people is too great to allow us to fall back to the age of the barbarian of the past. We have some good homes and lots in Globe, and are in the real estate business. Buying or selling, give us a call.
